CELEBRATING
A QUARTER-CENTURY'S
WORTH OF STUFF
WITH AL'S HEAD ON IT

July 28, 2006

"Beer is proof that God loves us and wants us to be happy."

—Benjamin Franklin

Dear Linkster:

The year 1982 witnessed many events of social, medical, legal, and political significance. Hard to believe, but 25 years have now slipped away since the British overcame Argentina in the Falklands, Princess Grace made that wrong turn off a slippery mountain road, Barney Clark enjoyed the world's first successful artificial heart implant, Leonid Brezhnev bought the collective farm and John Hinckley, Jr. pulled off the greatest insanity defense in the history of junk food.

According to legend, Al was unsettled with all that commotion as he tried to work on his short game. So with a disturbingly bewildered nod to the heavens, he called for his pals to gather up all loose change, toss their clubs in the trunk and meet on the first tee for a bit of friendly competition and a refreshment or twelve. Somehow this brilliant idea degenerated into the ALMO, a routine exhibit of persistent ineptitude. An annual gathering distinguished only by our collective willingness to suffer public displays of humiliation. A post round assembly by the keg which, depending upon our scores in relation to par, turns into a pleasant evening of conversation or begins to resemble the siege of Khartoum. By the look on his face, Al couldn't be happier.

Mark your calendar to join us for the 25th annual meeting of Al's closest golfing friends.

FRIDAY, SEPTEMBER 15, 2006

1:00pm

HICKORY VALLEY G.C., (Presidential Course) Gilbertsville, PA 610 754 9862.

Golf, dinner and the usual distractions. Tastefully crafted novelties featuring Al's timeless expression. As always, $105 per player. Checks payable to me c/o this office. Hurry, we have things to order. Be sure to select either the Chariots of Fire movie poster or a copy of Bette Davis Eyes (signed by Kim Carnes) for delivery by our roving memento cart during the round. As no one ever bothers to state a preference, pairings and start times will be assigned at random. There will be no return mailing.

Good luck. Good Golf.
